What's up mammals! And non-mammals. We're all friends here. It's that time again! Thassright, 9.30 on a Sunday evening, way later than planned, putting this little packup together. One of these days I'll really get my shizzle in gear. It's a little smaller than last time, but no matter, the super huge obituaries section is totally FUEL FOR THE ANGST MACHINE!!!

Direct quote from a response to one of the lovely people who sent in submissions this time around. And, seriously, have a read. Am I wrong? Course not. I love it. I may not be on plot any more, but there's something about the sweet sustenance tears provide that a girl just can't quit. As always, thanks to everyone who wrote in content. Fancy giving it a shot for spring? Go for it! I'll be happy to talk through potential ideas and content, preferably before the keen has faded after this weekend!

Well, for those of you that are new here, hello! Welcome! First sanctioned event? Sweet! It's going to be great! Plot, nice people, Baz's mum's dinners, more plot! It gets pretty nippy at night, so don't forget more socks than you think you'll need (Sealskinz if you have em), something to keep your head warm, lots of bedding (including something to put between your sleeping bag and the ground, and plenty of layers. Don't forget, the faction has a hot-water-bottle rental scheme. Pay a fiver to Gail or anyone else at ops, get a nice hot water bottle for the weekend, and when you return the bottle, you get your fiver back. Nifty.

That's all I got this time, I think I need to, like, find my knitwear. See you in a field!

Love and squishes,
Noodle

From the Plot Team:

Hello!

Hello Everyone.

As anyone who was at the GEF will be aware Rob has decided that he wants to be a player again and so has stepped down as head of plot for the Faction. I'd like to thank him for the awesome work he has done and for giving up so much of his time so that everyone can enjoy the suffering and misery that he's inflicted upon your Characters.

His Reign of terror is at an end and now begins a new reign of TERROR! With that in mind HELLO I'm Will McKeever and I'll be your new head of plot for the faction. Rob has left me in a fantastic position with a fantastic team and with that in mind we'll be moving forward with some new plots and ways to make your IC lives miserable. AS before the same guidelines for plot will still apply (don't fix what isn't broken).

(Ed: See below for plot interaction guidelines)

Character and Group Backgrounds

Have you ever wondered what would happen if the past came back to haunt your character? If the fate of your character's brother was not what you thought? If a group of angry-looking Orcs came knocking on the gate, asking for you? Or a letter is found, stained in blood, with your name on the cover?

Well, submit your background to Plot Team, or you'll never know!

New player? Awesome! Welcome to the Lions! We'll be happy to help you make sure that your character concept fits with the game-world in general, and the Lions in particular.

Here at Plot Team, we can't get enough of your submissions, and love each and every time we receive one. Please send them (and group backgrounds) to plot@lionsfaction.co.uk

Note: By doing so, you are giving Plot Team the power to mess with you.

Addendum from Brian

'Keenerthanabagofnewbies' Roberts:

And please, I would very much like to read your character backgrounds. They may be brief, they may be epic tomes, they allow us to possibly grow the future from your characters past.

Thanks,

Brian Roberts, Lions Plot.

Research requests

If you submit a research request to the LT please follow this up with an email to plot@lionsfaction.co.uk with the details of the research so that we can ensure that you receive a timely and accurate response.

Lions Plot Team Guidelines.

What follows is a brief FAQ covering how the Lions faction plot team operates and how to get the most as a player from us as your plot team.

Will I get my plot on the field?

We at the Lions plot team always aim to use personal plot and backgrounds if they are submitted, because we enjoy reading them as much as you enjoy writing them. They often help lay deeper foundations for existing plot lines or new ones. However we simply can't fit them all into the brief time we get on the field, so whether yours runs is a roll of the dice but we can promise we will try.

Is there downtime?

Short answer: No.

However, with some exceptions, we won't tell you what your characters have been doing over the gaps between events. If you want to pad out your in-character discussion by saying you have been working in 'X tavern' or travelling to see 'Y character' for a non-plot related chat, we will not contradict you. We will not, though, tell you about plot that is going on, even if you live at the location of the plot, nor is it possible to talk to NPCs over a gap period, but you can send letters to them from the field and should get replies.

If I can't act what's the point emailing?

Even if you can't act in the gap time we love hearing what you would like to be doing (not conducting troop movements or information gathering for example, as previously stated) such as whether you're becoming an alcoholic or just starting to gather rabbits in your house on Gallathrix.

Chances are these emails will be added to our 'just for information pile', but now and then there is a gem we can use and it can help with plot and or character progression.

What questions can I ask plot team?

There are a lot of things that are unknown in terms of plot to the average player (or there were to me at least) so if you have a question sling us an email and we'll try to get back to you with an answer.

No question is stupid. [If computers could support it, this sentence would be in 12 foot letters of fire. Noodle.]

How long can I expect to wait for a plot reply?

We try and get back to you as soon as we can but our plot team is made up of amazing volunteers that give their spare time to sorting what is sometimes a raging torrent of plot, so be please be patient. We always try and get it done as soon as we can but no true time scale can be given.

Backgrounds and background submission?

Backgrounds are great to receive and give us a great starting point for some plotlines or how to interact with your character. They can take the form of a few descriptive paragraphs or pages of story, however we do ask that once a background is submitted that changes be kept to a minimum (we are not going to hate you if you make the odd change). If we decide to use that character 'Evil Uncle Bill' and then when he reaches the field we discover he's been written out in favour of 'Kind Aunt Margaret' it's a tad awkward.

Plot requests. E.g. Evacuations etc?

If you have made a request in uptime about for example evacuating your island because 'it's got ants' or some other perfectly valid reason pop a reminder to us on our plot email after the event (preferably soon afterwards) to make sure its logged and we will get back to you. These tend to take one of the two following ways, either an email of what's happening or a brief at the next event. We may also run encounters to give the results.

Players in Peril?

If you are a player in peril, e.g. you transported to a battle zone or dangerous area at the end of an event or you live in area that has been invaded, just pop us an e-mail detailing this. We will either give you an emailed brief before your next event (we don't know your next event unless you warn us) or we will brief you in the field before you go IC in some manner.

If you have any other questions please ask – plot@lionsfaction.co.uk or ask any of us in the field.

General's Office

The office of the Adjutant General thanks all who contribute regularly to this publication. We would like to remind all readers that the invitation to contribute is open to all Lions, on any topic pertaining to the business of the faction, personal notices and obituaries, or material of a diverting or entertaining nature.

A missive from the Lord of the Southlands

Lions,

The year started terribly for you with the death of Queen Lenia. You still have my condolences on that loss and the loss of the other Lantian Heroes that have fallen during the year.

I'm not just writing to talk about loss I write to you about hope. During the year it was discussed by the High Council of the Jackals and agreed that we would seek a formal alliance with the Lions. The Diplomats have done fine work in getting this sorted and I was due to attend with other members of the High Council on Saturday of the Gathering to make it all official, and then have a celebration. Unfortunately that night my wife died to whatever that Alien monster was.

I was in no mood for anything after that, least of all celebration. The weekend of the Gathering continued and I set my sights solely on making sure as many people of my nation didn't die and that we achieved the alliances goals. The fact that I can write this letter is testimony to all the heroes that fought the Deceivers forces. My first action on the Friday of the

First Moot 1116 is to sign the alliance between our two nations and work together to make this a prosperous year for both of us.
I look forward to that day if I don't see you at the Jackals Campaign in the Kongasa.

In Faith,

Zoraster
Lord of the Nile

Mentioned in Dispatches

Autumn 1115

Lions,

You are a nation to be proud of, a nation who stands and fight for what it believes in, for what is right - no matter how hard and no matter the cost. This year, the unliving have come for us, stronger than ever, taking our Queen. They have poured out from the broken walls at Al-Qafar like a seemingly unstoppable flood. We sent our armies to force a path through for us, to try and hold them back, to buy us time, and we took the fight to them.

And there we stopped the unstoppable.

We gave our allies the strength to hold, to reseal the walls, to protect the city from the call of Saturn. And on that field the barrow-wight who took our Queen fell too. Be proud Lions. Because of you - because of your courage, your strength, your tireless dedication - the plague of unliving lies diminished, the dark tide flowing from the walls on the egg has ebbed. Our lands, and that of our allies, are made safer. But let us not forget the cost. Those forces we sent to clear our path to Al-Qafar were lost. All of them. 4,200 Lions died, as did unknown numbers of others from across the Heartlands and the Southlands. We are alive because they are not. Because they, too, stood and died for our beliefs. For every living being to have a right to live, to love, to hope, and to dream. For Honour. For Justice. Because we are Lions, and it was the right thing to do.

And given this, it comes as no surprise that there are so many thanks to share. All spelling mistakes are my own, and if I have spelled your name wrong, I apologise, and I owe you a drink to make sure I get to know you better. And to the two people whose names I do not know, I am truly sorry - I definitely owe you a drink at the least. Never before have I agreed with the need to thank the entire Faction, but it seems that this time, it is the only place I can begin.

The Lions nation wishes to recognise those who have gone above and beyond the call of duty, in particular we thank the entire Faction - your actions and your conduct over the Gathering made 4200 lives a worthwhile price to pay to save the world. You did them proud.

The Lions Military command - given the struggles you faced to get us to Al-Qafar, your continued strength, skill, and composure at the walls themselves leave us humbled.

Arya - we gave you a difficult job to do, asked a lot of you for someone so new to the Faction. We asked you to stand as Chair of Council, and to lead the work reforming it. To represent your Faction and your Crowns at that level is one of the hardest jobs we have. For your thought, effort, dedication, and service, we thank you.

Damian - for deliberately getting yourself captured by nightmare things so you could rescue the people they'd taken. Your courage and initiative have really impressed us.

Rhiann - you are always on the line, or supporting the Gate.

Wherever you can be of most use, you are there, quietly yet eternally dedicated to the Faction. Countless Lions are still here today because of you.

Holegn - for your dedication on the Lions Gate. Your steadfastness, dependability, and reliability are not only an asset to this Faction, but set a standard to which we should aspire.

Sam from Sammerix - for trying to find a way to save the patterns of the fallen of the Legions.

Sam and the white haired fae from the Tribe of the Harvest Moon - for being so organised and running triage so well on Saturday night of the Gathering. Your work, and your competence, are greatly appreciated.

Two groups in particular deserve thanks for their hard work - the Prince Bishop's Men, and the Order of Celestial. Every morning you are the groups that guard our Gate, allowing the rest of us the time to do other duties, or wake up slowly, or even recover from the night before. Without your continued dedication, our mornings would be far more dangerous, and to know we can count on you reflects the high esteem this Faction holds you in, and deserves our heartfelt gratitude.

Nyanthi and those members of the Prince Bishops men who took the final battlefield at the Gathering. During that battle, Nyanthi spotted a Lion getting wasted some 35-40ft behind the lines. The Prince Bishops men instantly formed up and drilled through ranks of unliving to pick up the lion after only being told 'They've got a Lion, we need to move now'. It was impressive to watch, and were they not such an effective group, we certainly would have lost a Lion in that battle.

Forxnat and Dyrt - for your exceptional work in camp security at the Gathering. You keep us safe, and let us rest, and we are grateful.

Linn - for the amount of effort you put in to gather information for the Faction, and for your willingness to run escorts in the dark to the Guilds. These are not easy jobs, and you are exceptional at them.

Ysabel - for your excellent assistance to Clara. You always seem to know what is happening, and made sure information was made available.

Tyrell - for your assistance to the new High Diplomat, Ysabel. Your willingness to take messages was greatly appreciated. In addition, the amount of thought and effort you put into Thorg's ritual was invaluable. Thorg wishes to publically thank you himself, but on behalf of the Faction, rituals are dangerous at the best of times, and the rest of us can only watch and hope that the results are good. Whilst we have no doubt that this is not an isolated occurrence, on behalf of the Faction, we thank you for the level of planning and work you put into this ritual, working with watchers, and involving other factions to ensure the best outcome. You achieved not only 'amazing' results for Thorg, but in doing so, for all of us. And again, given the dangers involved, for accepting the position of Faction Ritemaster. You have our gratitude and our support.

Dorian and Milosh - for stepping into a ritual with no experience and doing a brilliant job.

The ritual team generally - from the first time ritualists at the Gathering, to the old hands who know the Circles; the contributors who are always there when we need them, to those who were new at the Gathering and stepped up to the bar; and the Crowns, for the support they give the Ritual team. Without you, all of you, and the risks you take and the effort you put in, the Faction would be a far weaker one.

Hodari - as High Ritualist you not only gave all of your support to the teams, you saved the lives of an entire circle by stopping a seal being lowered early.

Sherman, Johan and Althea - for the amazing planning, researching, organising, and completing a fantastic rite to open the Dwarven hold on Sammerix. The specifics of that rite down to the exact time, the exact amount of people and timing was immense.

To the Faction potion makers - you have worked tirelessly all year providing clear thoughts, summoning elixirs and other preparations to the Faction, often taking no profit. Whilst the results of your efforts are perhaps most clearly seen in the circle, I also know that you are there providing anti-venoms when a life is threatened, making sure that our healers are prepared to act against curses, and are, in fact, ever prepared, and ever willing to help improve the Faction and save the lives of your people, no matter the personal cost.

On Saturday night of the Moot, a large number of Death Knights and other unliving came into camp, and decimated the line. To - someone - we wish we knew who you were. You were a disembodied voice in the dark that we couldn't identify, who refused to give in or stop trying to kill Dracos, despite the pile of bodies on the ground in front of us and the death knights around us and in camp. Your bravery is a testament to what it truly means to be a Lion. We wish we could thank you properly.

There have been a number of changes in Faction positions.

Clara - our heartfelt congratulations as the New Head of Council. We wish you every success, and hope you enjoy your new post.

Ysabel - Congratulations on your appointment as High Ambassador. Clara left some big shoes to fill, so it's a good thing she's appointed someone we have no doubt can fill them. I can think of few people I am as comfortable to have as the face of our Faction across Erdreja.

Caerie Shadefellow has served as our High Healer since the 10th month of 2010, and at the Gathering gone, has stepped down. As Deputy / Acting High Healer, and later as Arcane Primus, I can safely say she is one of the most talented, most competent people I have ever had the privilege to train, and whilst I'm sorry to see her step down, she does it knowing she has saved more lives than I can count, and trained even more Healers to continue her amazing work. Caerie, we owe you more than you might ever realise. Thank you.

And even better, she leaves us in good hands.

Arya - congratulations on your appointment as High Healer of the Faction. Your skill, whether it is as a healer, a triager, an organiser, or a comforter, or just someone who is there for us, makes you the ideal choice for this post. We know you have our backs and that you will keep us safe.

Obsidia Hyskus has stepped down as High Sherriff. Her staff are highly trained, our laws are fair, and serve our needs, and the public trials she has overseen has guaranteed that Lions Justice is widely known to be transparent and honourable. Relations with the Guilds like the Scouts are better than they have ever been, and she leaves us with a team we have complete faith in. In addition, as a side to the post less often recognised, her work, thoughtfulness and support on the High Council cannot be understated.

Sam of Sammerix - as our new High Sherriff, congratulations.

Obsidia trusts you to continue her work, and I can think of no better recommendation.

We also offer our congratulations to the new Knights of Lantia, the highest honour the Faction can bestow.

And lastly, it is with deep sorrow, we offer these dedications posthumously.

Mordecai - for your dedication and effort to Regulating. Because of your work, people lived. You always thought you were doing what anyone would do, but the truth was, you did so much more.

Yiska and Lindra- for their dedication to supporting the Gate and enforcing its rules, even when it was a thankless task. And in that one sentence, we sum up some of what was best in you. When the Faction needed you, no matter the task, you were there.

I said at the Moot that I was in awe that three pages of names might be a new record. Well, if it was, Lions, you didn't rest on those laurels. We now have five pages of thanks - each and every one a testament to the hard work, diligence, competence, bravery, and sheer awesomeness that make us the finest Faction on the field:

Lions.

An Exclusive Interview
with Lady Alrisha Neverwinter, Wife to King Caileb!

JOINING US HERE TODAY IS Lady alrisha neverwinter. wife of the king, necromancer, unofficial ambassador for the far southlands, and perpetual source of controversy and speculation. Lady neverwinter kindly took the time to meet with us in an upmarket coffee house in camelot. she has up to now kept to herself, but was surprisingly keen to agree to interview. clad in her usual green and black robes, sipping a weak tea, and smoking her trademark cigarette, Lady Neverwinter was in an unusually expansive mood.

so tell me. can I call you alrisha? what brings you here today? we're obviously delighted you agreed to speak with us, but what encouraged you to take the plunge so to speak?

yes, alrisha's fine of course. as for what encouraged me. I realised many of the populace of Lantia don't know a great deal about me despite being wife to their king. I'd like to clear things up.

well, I think I know what you're getting at, but we'll get into it in a moment. not many of our readers would be as well travelled as you, certainly! how do the people of Lantia compare with the southlanders? have they been welcoming to you?

well, that's complicated. the southlands comprises of many nations. aegyptians as I am, maurabians, persians, arabians among others. each as different as you would expect nations to be. aegyptus itself is a land steeped in faith. as for your people, yes I've been treated well, I believe with some wariness but then I am quite the blow in. the lions who attend the larger gatherings of nations have, I hope, come to trust me. and I hope so too will everyone else.

you mention faith. how does knowing that your....faith.... is so counter to Lantian norms and morality?

that faith is mine. it is counter yes, in many ways. and not so in many others. but i do not preach it here. i do not ask my husband for a temple on your lands or the laws to be changed. paramount in my mind is respecting the laws. especially those of the nation i have come to call friend.

so what you're saying is you don't practice it here...? because we've heard things about poultry...

...did you hear about it from grandmaster ilsa perchance? to explain...we don't really have chickens in aegyptus. and while

HERE VISITING THE KING I KILLED ONE.
FOR MAKING A MEAL. BUT AS I DID SO IT KEPT MOVING, WHICH I DID BRIEFLY
FEAR WAS SPONTANEOUS
NECROMANCY. A FRIEND EXPLAINED THAT IT WAS NOT. WHILE LAUGHING, AN AMOUNT OF LAUGHTER I FELT WAS ENTIRELY UNWARRANTED. BUT, TO ANSWER YOUR QUESTION, NO, NEVER ON LANTIAN SOIL. NEVER HAVE, NEVER WILL.

WELL, I'M SURE OUR READERS WILL BE VERY REASSURED. ON A LIGHTER
TOPIC, YOUR BUSY LIVES MUST MAKE IT VERY DIFFICULT TO KEEP UP WITH EACH OTHER. ANY TOP TIPS ON KEEPING THAT SPECIAL SOMEONE FEELING SPECIAL?

I DON'T BELIEVE US VERY DIFFERENT
TO ANYONE ELSE. JUST SPENDING TIME TOGETHER WHEN WE CAN,
MEETING WITH FRIENDS, BEING NORMAL WHEN OUR LIVES ARE FAR FROM. WE DIVIDE OUR TIME BETWEEN

here and aegyptus when we are able. as to tips, I don't know. just ensure there is honesty in your marriage and the rest will come together.

before we let you get back to it, I have to ask ~ your famous eyeliner. where can the fashionable Lantian get their hands on some?

oh that? that's kohl. we wear it more than anything to protect our eyes from the brightest light of the sun. I did not know it was considered fashionable here. perhaps I should see about providing some to the fashionable Lantian with some trade agreement. it is in plentiful supply in aegyptus.

MOOT I OUTSIDE THE BAR 3PM

Obituaries

Yiska,

You were so full of ideas and dreams, always in pursuit of knowledge to further understand where you should be going in life. From conversations about elementals, daemons, ancestrals and being awakened, your pursuit of knowledge was always impressive. It seemed only fitted that you be the one then blessed with a possession that gave you the direction you needed. I am sorry to see you not be able to continue down this path, that it be cut short by your act of heroism is reflection of the limitless courage you always had. You saved Lions with that act, and the titles bestowed upon you by them in honour of this reflects their feelings. There were your family and friends, May you hunt with Malar and forever remain a reminder that anyone can stand up for what they believe in.

Xanthoir,

We were not friends. We were not enemies. We were so different. But then, you were different to your own kind – ego replaced with heart and concern. When you asked to be made into something other to your nature, you said that it was to prevent others from misusing your blood, your flesh, your pattern. I think that, in truth, you couldn't face being so alone. The last of a lonely race. I don't know if there's anything left of you now, but if so, I hope it rests well.

Yiska,

You stupid boy. Why did it have to be you.

It was you because you were a Lion and a Free Blade and you gave your life to save your friends in a truly selfless why.

You saved my life that day.

Spending most of your power to mend me after i had been on the floor bleeding for too long.

And what did I do for you in return? I stood and cried while I watched them waste your pattern, powerless to do anything to help.

Well, you will not be forgotten. I will remember you, the times we spent together defending Emmerix, the Free Blades and the Lions. I will tell stories of your heroics to new Free Blades and anyone who asks.

Yiska, find Spaff of the next plane and tell him you are no longer his apprentice but his equal. A goodbye hasn't been this hard for me since Shunka died.

Hunt well with Malar.

Abby,
Lost without you following her.

Members of the Silver court lost at Summer Moot.

I had only just gotten to know the four of you a few weeks previous when we met with the court of the crimson dune to fight Angry Menu. I enjoyed fighting along side each one of you. You all had your different styles, a couple of you preferred scouting, one of you was an all or nothing kind of guy, one liked to watch from the back. I will miss conversation about fey things and jam around your campfire at night. It was an honor to bodyguard you until your end. I do feel I failed, despite knowing that Three of you gave your lives willingly to save the Egg.

Being around you and getting to know you all better made me feel, for the first time in a long long time, sad to be not a fey anymore. I ran away from Arcadia for reasons. I didn't want to be any part of it, or the fey and I jumped at the chance to change myself. After getting to know you and listening to you I realized that maybe not all fey are like the family that raised me. Maybe if my family had been more like the four of you I wouldn't have run away. But then I would never have had the pleasure and honor of meeting you and getting to know you as friends.

I hope you find peace knowing that your actions saved the Egg and countless peoples lives.

I will never forget you for as long as I walk this plane.

Abby

Bodyguard

I didn't cry when you died. I think I knew that that was how you would meet your end, fighting for what you believed in. Its only now that the unliving threat is lessened that I have had time to sit and digest. I think the reason I haven't grieved for you is that I haven't come to terms with what happened. I wasn't there. I was busy being unconscious in the Mages guild waiting for someone to realize what I was and fix me. I keep looking for you on the battle field, as if you will just appear beside me like you used to. But it is time I stop trying to find you, following your ghost through the battle lines and accept that I won't see you again. I hope you enjoy your freedom of the hunt, without any more responsibility holding you back and I will continue to look for the crown, but one a different head.

Rest well with Malar

Abby
Regulator.
